Room 703, 700 Level

Cosponsored by Government & Public Sector Lawyers Division

In the wake of the global financial crisis, with instant media coverage and increased incentives for whistleblowers, it is crucial that lawyers understand and anticipate the different types of government and private actions that may occur simultaneously or successively when a crisis hits. This program offers practical advice on how to anticipate and handle the barrage of government and private activity that can occur when word gets out about an investigation into fraud, money laundering, Foreign Corrupt Practices Act violations and other illegal conduct, with a specific focus on SEC whistleblower situations, presented by practitioners with real, current experience in these interwoven areas.
